The Tonight Show's John Melendez, AKA "Stuttering John" debuts his New Compilation Album. Sugartit's & The Decider's.

One time Atlantic and Razor & Tie recording artist John Melendez, has put together a compilation album. His latest release is an eclectic mixture of tracks from John's high school years, to never released tracks he recorded for Atlantic Records, to new music he recorded for the soundtrack of his latest film, "National Lampoon Presents, One Two Many". Sugartits & The Deciders has charisma, easygoing charm, playful wit, and gracious humility, all of which combine to make it an entertaining record.

After 15 seasons on Howard Stern's radio show, John Melendez is in his fifth season on NBC's "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno." Besides being the show's nightly announcer, Melendez regularly appears in the show's comedy sketches and does correspondent pieces.

Melendez A graduate of NYU's Prestigious film and television program began with "The Howard Stern Show" as an intern in college, and landed on the air almost immediately. During his 15 seasons with Stern, Melendez gained national acclaim and recognition as "Stuttering John" with his daring and irreverent interview style and prominent personality. In addition to interviewing countless celebrities on the radio, Melendez was simultaneously hired as a field reporter for the nationally syndicated "Howard Stern Television Show," where he worked for two seasons as an interviewer and in sketch pieces for the show's man-on-the-street segments. He continued his television work for Howard Stern on the highly rated E! television show & also served as a writer/performer on the CBS show.

Aside from his notable work on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno" and with Howard Stern, Melendez's co hosted "Last Call" for Brandon Tarinkoff on CBS. Feature film credits include "Private Parts," "Dude Where's My Car," "Meet Wally Sparks," "Airheads" and "Osmosis Jones." On television, he is credited with appearances on the reality series "I'm A Celebrity, Get Me Out Of Here" and "Celebrity Fear Factor," had guest-starring roles on "Wings" and "Baywatch Nights" and was the voice of "Bob" in the animated series "Tripping The Rift" on the Sci-Fi channel. Most recently, Melendez stars in the full-length feature, "One, Two, Many" which he also wrote and produced. Melendez will soon begin filming the comedy "Will Run," which he also wrote and will produce as well as make his directorial debut.
